The Loons have replaced the Whitecaps with one of the most prominent clubs in the NASL. With the likes of Christian Ramirez, and his new midfield partner, Hassoun Camara, the Whitecaps are looking to continue their winning start and get to the postseason. The Whitecaps looked a bit stifled in their most recent performance with a 1-0 loss to DC United at BC Place, but have had a strong start to the MLS season as of late. They look to gain momentum from their first-ever trip to Texas, not only for the match, but also for their Saturday home clash against the U.S. Men's National Team on Tuesday night. Vancouver also have an excellent home form record, and will be looking to build on their 4-1 win over fellow MLS side the Portland Timbers last week. To further complicate the situation for Houston fans, they are coming off a tough 2-0 loss to the New England Revolution. "We know that they're good, and to have a difficult game against the best team in the league, it shows that we're improving," Whitecaps defender Jay DeMerit said last week. "We're just focusing on ourselves. We've got a good team, we have a good chemistry and we're just trying to do what we do best, and hopefully that's win the game." The Earthquakes don't look to have as
